Louie: Oh, hi, Sandra.

Sandra: You look upset. Is something wrong?

Louie: My brother is in the hospital.

Sandra: Jack? Why?

Louie: He got hurt by the tripping jump challenge.

Sandra: What's that?

Louie: It's a stupid, dangerous new prank from America.

Sandra: How does it work?

Louie: Two people trick a third person into standing between them. They say they want to make a video of all three people jumping together. When the person in the middle jumps, the other two kick his legs out so he falls flat on his back.

Sandra: That sounds really dangerous. And Jack fell for it?

Louie: Yeah. These two "friends" of his did it to him. Now his back is badly hurt. Other people landed on their heads and got brain damage. Two kids died from it!

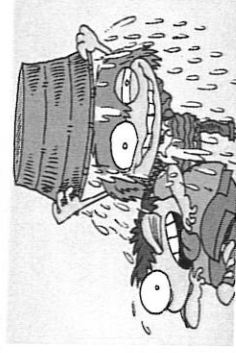

Sandra: That's terrible! I hope Jack gets better soon.

Louie: He should, thanks. I just hope he's more careful next time.

One day, a mouse, Ben, called his cousin, Rebecca.

"Rebecca, do you want to come to my apartment? We can go to the zoo and eat out at a nice restaurant," said Ben. Rebecca was excited! She lived in the country and Ben lived in the city. It was quiet in the country and busy in the city.

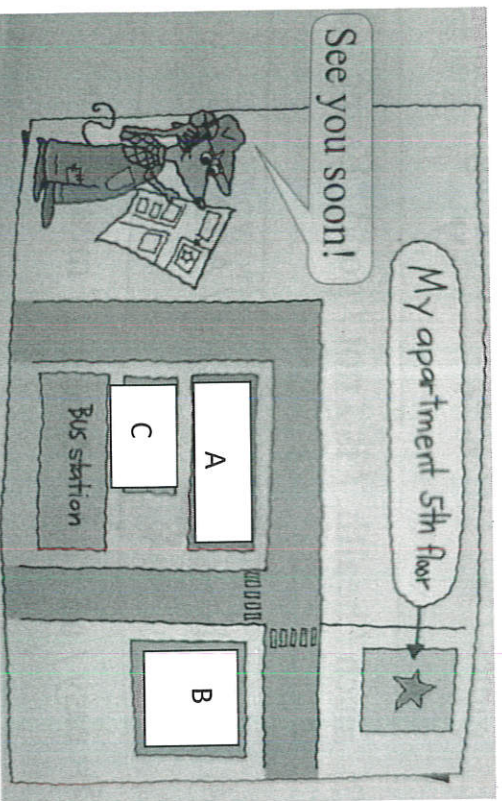

"Sure! How do I get there?" "Is it difficult?" Rebecca asked.

"No, it's easy!" said Ben. Take bus number 73 from the road near your farm, and then get off the bus at the Mousetown Bus Station. At the bus station, go past the bank and turn right at the shopping mall. Go straight, and then cross the street. There is a movie theater on the corner. Cross the street again. My apartment is across from that movie theater. I'm on the fifth floor," said Ben.

"Sorry, Ben. You're speaking too fast. I can't remember your directions. Do you have a map? I can look at the map and find the way to your apartment," said Rebecca.

"No, I don't, but my brother does. His name is Allen. He lives next to you. You can ask him to give you the map. The map is very clear and has many directions on it. You can't get lost," said Ben.

"Great! I can read the map and follow the directions," said Rebecca.

Drones may look just like small airplanes, but actually, drones are different from airplanes. Drones don't carry people, so they can go to dangerous places. We can use drones to save people's lives. However, bad things also happen with drones.

On February 5, 2019, Mexico City police caught a man. He found no one was inside the house with camera on his drone before he broke in. To his surprise, the homeowner was actually at home. She called for help when she saw the man. A neighbor called the police when he heard her shout. After the police caught the thief, he told them this was not his first time.

The police said they never heard of cases like this before. But a study shows many people are using drones to do bad things now. The same study also shows bad guys even carry drugs from Mexico to the U.S with drones. Between 2012 and 2017, they tried at least 850 times. And the sad thing was — (38) _____.

The Sound of Honesty

There is an "honest" store in Taichung run by Ms. Jiang. In the store, there is no clerk. Ms. Jiang waters the plants and cleans the place, and then she leaves the store. Visitors get the things they want to buy and put the money by themselves in a big urn. They call it "the honest urn." When the coin falls down into the urn, it makes a clear sound. That's "the sound of honesty."

It was an old store, and it was going to be shut down. Ms. Jiang wanted to keep the place because people rested there; children played and did their homework there. It was a place for all. Ms. Jiang bought the store and kept it open for everyone. She couldn't stay at the store all day, so she came up with the honesty idea. Now there are a lot of visitors even foreigners come to shop "honesty."

Ms. Jiang said she never worries about the way she runs the store. (41) . They will feel guilty if they don't pay. "Once a visitor sent $20 from Taipei because he forgot to pay at the store." Sometimes she loses money because people don't pay, but she still believes in people. Ms. Jiang is very touched because people understand what she's doing.
